

ABSTRACT

One embodiment of present invention is a method for preventing the modification of a primary pass-phrase of an electronic system. Access to stored information such as a primary pass-phrase is disabled despite assertion of an override pin of an integrated 5 circuit device of the electronic device when an override disable pin of the integrated circuit device is asserted prior to assertion of the override pin.

20110101